Welcome to the NICE Annual Conference 2019

NICE 2019: Transforming care celebrates 20 years of NICE's commitment to innovation, excellence and evidence-based health and care.

Bringing frontline staff and leaders from health and care together with the life sciences, healthtech and digital sectors, the event outlines NICE's essential role supporting the delivery of high quality, fully-integrated, person-centred care.

The plenary and parallel programme will explore topics ranging from how human factors affect patient safety, to proving the value of health apps and ensuring that mental and physical healthcare are truly integrated.

NICE 2019 packs 12 hours of content into just one day:

- Renowned keynote speakers, including conference host, clinician and broadcaster Dr Phil Hammond
- Pills or prevention? Discuss whether transformative medicines or public health programmes will ensure the sustainability of the NHS
- Case studies from the frontline on quality improvement
- Future-focused parallel sessions exploring how the health and care landscape will be shaped by factors from genomics to Brexit in the coming years
- Troubleshoot local implementation challenges with the NICE Field Team

Plus, find out how NICE guidance and quality standards are being used to make a difference to people's lives, at the 2019 NICE Shared Learning Awards. The Awards take place at a networking reception on Wednesday 8th May at 7.00pm at the Hilton Deansgate. Join us to celebrate NICE's 20th anniversary and hear how colleagues from across the UK are putting NICE guidance and standards into practice.
